UAG (Urban Armor Gear) is a brand focused on making extremely durable accessories for mobile devices and tablets. Its products are designed to meet military protection standards, ensuring maximum resistance to drops and impacts. UAG is known for its rugged and industrial design that is not only stylish but most importantly functional. The brand also focuses on ensuring that the products provide a high level of protection without adding unnecessary weight and bulk to the device. Its reliability makes UAG a popular choice among adventurers, athletes and users who require maximum protection for their gear.

UAG's new iPhone 16 cases bring an even higher level of protection with improved materials and innovative design. Each case is engineered to meet rigorous military drop-resistance standards, ensuring protection even in harsh environments. Despite the rugged construction, the holsters are lightweight and ergonomic, ensuring comfortable use. Design-wise, they adhere to the brand's typical industrial style, combining functionality with a distinctive look. The new range is also fully compatible with wireless charging, ensuring maximum practicality for everyday use.
